

Emma Hitt, PhD

3605 Sandy Plains Rd Ste 240-146, Marietta, GA 30066-3066

emma@hittmedicalwriting.com

www.hittmedicalwriting.com

Experience:

Independent Medical Writer and Consultant

Emma Hitt Medical Writing, LLC, 2001-present

- Develop, write, and edit CME and sales training programs for multiple clients
- Build and maintain ongoing relationships with clients
- Manage subcontractors and a staff of 2 employees

CME providers served include AcceleraRomar, Clinical Advances in Hematology and Oncology, Clinical Care Options, Gardiner-Caldwell Pacific, McMahon Publishing, Medscape/WebMD, North American Medical Education, PeerView Institute/Doctor's Guide, Primary Care Education Consortium, Quest MedEd, Tricore Interactive

Managing Editor, Hematology/Oncology, CME-related programs

Clinical Care Options, LLC, 2003-2004

- Developed content for multiple CME programs
- Developed relationships with key opinion leaders in the area of hematology/oncology
- Supported business development and marketing team in oncology grant-writing process
- Coordinated editorial staff and freelancers to deliver highly quality CME programs

Graduate Research Assistant

Emory University, 1994-2001

- Developed and carried out scientific research protocols for doctoral studies
- Wrote and submitted grants and papers

Education:

- PhD Nutrition and Health Sciences
Area of research: Cancer-related signal transduction
Emory University, 2001
- MS Technical and Professional Communication
Southern Polytechnic State University, 2003
- BS Biology
University of Central Florida, 1992

Other:

Ability to travel

Ability to interview medical experts on camera

Extensive public speaking experience developed in Toastmasters since June 2007

Strong organizational and people management skills; friendly, and personable